There is one item in the bill that will cause a row in conference. That is the item appropriating $100,000 for defining the irrigation construction works on the Gila River at San Carlos, Ariz. That item was put into the bill as an amendment by the Senate. It met with bitter opposition, and will meet still further opposition from at least one member of the Conference Committee. That member is Senator Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, who, forgetting the plank he had inserted in the party platform last campaign, is opposing this irrigation appropriation.

Jones finds no fault with the appropriation or form in which it is made. He simply says this is not a good time

THE SYMPATHY QUESTION.

IBY THE EEW ASSOCIATED PRESS. F.M.!

BERLIN, Jan. 22.—The alleged remark of the Kaiser with reference to the little sympathy displayed by the Reichstag and Prussian Diet in connection with the death of Queen Victoria, although further respudiated, still continues to be challenged even by the ultra-conservative papers.

The Kreuz Zeitung, for instance, emphatically denies that the German legislative bodies had any reason to actotherwise than they did. It cites Great Britain's behavior at the death of Emperor William I, when Parliament did not adjourn, and when the Prince of Wales, colly colebrated his silver wedding the following day.

"Even on the recent occasion of the death of the Duke of Saxe-Weimar, a man generated throughout Germany, the Reichstag did not adjourn, says the Kreuz Zeitung, "and in that case the court went into mourning for only three days."

REIGN OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY. POREIGN RELATIONS IMPROVED

POREIGN RELATIONS IMPROVED.
(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-A.M.)
NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—A dispatch to the Tribune from London says the presentation of the blue ribbon of the sarter by King Edward to the Crown Prince of Germany was a fresh proof of the cordinity of the relations bet-veen the two royal families. King Edward has opened his reign by emphasizing in the strongest way his personal friendship for the German Emperor; and this was perhaps necessary, because there was a different

Emperor; and this was perhaps necessary, because there was a different feeling not long ago when William II was not persons grats in royal circles here. The Queen's death has indeed brought England and Germany into the closest possible relations.

The German Emperor's conduct during the South African war opened the way for a better understanding, but the popular apprehension of his devotion to the Queen was needed in order to justify what is now in the air—a virtual alliance between England and Germany, not only in China but also in Europe. Germany is England's most formidable industrial and commercial rival in Europe, but, while protecting her own productive interests, she is now secured against any inostile demonstration against her manufacturers in this market, and "made in Germany" will no longer be a derivice outery.

in France, and the new reign opens with a better feeling between the neighbors across the channel than has existed for many years. It may be transitory, but the King's name is one to conjure with in France.

Anglo-American relations have been sweetened by the unique tributes of the President and the State Legislatures to the Queen's character and virtues. Lord Lensdowne is reported to heve consulted the King at Onborfie respecting the canal treaty, but there is no definite evidence of it. No English voice is raised against the acceptance of the amendments. The settlement of the canal controversy will be generally welcomed here. The time is not auspicious for international resentments and points of diplomatic dignity.

SOCIALIST PAPER'S TALE.

BERLIN, Jan. 29 .- [By Atlantic Cable.] The Vorwaerts (Socialist organ) den departure for England was not only due to a desire to bid farewell to his dying grandmother, but still more to the Prince of Wales's urgent wish to settle a private-debt affair to wish to settle a private-debt affafr to the Emperor before ascending the throne. This debt the Vorwaerts asserted, amounted to 24,000,000 marks, which Emperor Frederick, immediately after beginning his reign, loaned the Prince of Wales in order to place the latter in a position to pay accumulated debts to the amount of 24,000,000 marks. The loaned money, it was further asserted, was part of the savings amounting to 56,000,000 marks. left by Emperor William I. Count Von Stolberg, then minister of the imperial household, the Vorwaerts also said, vainly opposed the paying out of the 24,000,000 marks and thereupon resigned.

IDY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.J LONDON, Jan. 22.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The following is the text of the address of King Edward VII to the Crown Prince of Germany, Frederick Wilhelm, on the occasion of His Majesty's presenting the insignia of the Order of the Garter to the Crown Prince in the council chamber in Osborne House:

Order of the Garter to the Crown Prince in the council chamber in Osborne House:

"Sir: In conferring upon your imperial and royal highness the ancient and most noble Order of the Garter, which was founded by my ancestor (Edward III) many centuries ago, I invest you with the order of knightood, not only as the heir to the throne of a mighty as the heir to the throne of a mighty as the heir to the throne of a mighty as the wish of my beloved mother. It was the wish of my beloved mother. It was the wish of my beloved mother. It was the wish of my beloved mother the Queen, to bestow it on you as a mark of fher favor, and I am only carrying out her wishes, and am glad to do so to one of my illustrious relatives.

"To the German Emperor, to whom I wish to express my sincere thanks for having assisted in attending and watching over the Queen and remaining with her until her last moment, order may yet further cement and strengthen the feelings which exists be tween the two great countries, and that we may go forward, hand in hand, with the high object of insuring peace and promoting the advance of civilization of the world."

GDELVANCES OF THE IRISE.

VICTORIA'S REIGN DENOUNCED.
INT THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M. I
NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—At the regular monthly meeting of the United Irish-American Societies, sixty-eight organisations being present, res organizations being present, resolu-tions were passed unanimously, read-ing in part as follows:

"The population of Ireland, a land sowing with milk and honey, and cap-able, according to the best authorities, of supporting more than twenty mil-lions of people in ease and comfort, has been reduced from more than eight and one-half to less than four and one-half millions of people; the actual number of Irish people who have died of starwation in the midst of plenty during Queen Victoria's reign is more than a million and a quarter; more than four millions of people, according to the same authority, have been compelled to emigrate from Ireland to foreign countries; the manufacturing industries of the country have been steadily discouraged, and as far as possible stamped out.

"Everything which could be done to impoverish and depopulate the country—to root out the people from their nativesoil, and drive them to seek other homes in alien lands; to break their spirit and make of them slaves and outcasts—has been done under Victoria's reign, and with her full connivance and cons—at.

"We denounce the reign of Victoria as one long act of bloodshed, murdar, cruelty and cant, and insist that when its history is truly written and the influence of snobbery, flunkeyism and toadyism is removed it will be looked back upon as one in which English wealth and power both properly passed their zenith and entered upon a rapid and permanent decline—as one in which, despite the material progress made by England in the earlier and middle part thereof, greater injustice, more cruelty, grosser wrong were inflicted upon humanity in general and upon the Irish in particular than in the reign of any other English monarch."

ANGLO-GERMAN ALLIANCE. RUSSIAN FEARS VOICED.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 29.—[Exclu ive Dispatch.] The Svet declares the ppointment of Emperor William as eld marshal in the British army and he sending of the German naval quadron to take part in the Queen's meral distinctly indicate an Anglo-erman alliance of defensive and offensive character. It adds that it has be-come clear that ex-President Kruger come clear, that ex-President Kruger was not received in Berlin because Germany needed an alliance with Great Britain for the purpose of enabling her to assume the dominating position in the Balkans that she is assuming. The question whether an Anglo-German alliance threatens to injure Russis can, the paper declares, only be answered in the affirmative.

The Bourse Gasette regards the appointment of Emperor William as a British field marshal as a fresh stage in the road leading Germany into England's arms, which have long been opened to receive her. It remarks that Great Britain, which in 1897 was boasting of her "splendid isolation," is now hunting for allies.

FRENCH PAPER'S VIEW. PARIS. Jan. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Temps acknowledges the significance of the exchange of honors between the German and English monarchs, but adds that dynastic relations have never overridden state interests. Such relations neutralize each other, King Edward being uncle of the Caarlina, as well as of Emperor William. Moreover, the Austrian Emperor was defeated at Sadowa by honorary marshals and generals of his army. KAISER WITHOUT DEBTS.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M. BERLIN. Jan. 29.—From the most trustworthy sources it is ascertained that there is no foundation whatever for the rumors frequently appearing in the German press, that Emperor William is largely indebted to Herr Krupp and other German capitalists. On the contrary, the Kaiser is not only without debts, but he is saving money yearly for his children.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) (BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2-- [Exclusive Dispatch.] As a result of a bitter fight which has been in progress in the War Department for ageral weeks, action has been taken by Secretary Root which will probably result in preventing a public scandal caused by Congressional investigation. Nothing would have been heard of the considered Hall last evening before an in-terested and appreciative audience, treating the good and bad of realism. The speaker went into details of crit-icism and gave a very instructive dis-course on the productions and charac-teristics of the great writers. Nothing would have been heard of the matter save for the clashing interests of rival railroads and the desire of the old Huntington interests to monopolise the whole business of transportation M. The principal fight has been letween the Southern Pacific and the Santa Pe and official correspondence on the sub-ject has also involved a serious differject has also involved a serious difference of opinion between Secretaries Root and Gage. Formerly it was the custom to give the Union and Central Pacific roads all the business, because these roads were heavily in debt to the government. Since the adjustment of the debt, a change was made. So Gage decided there was no longer a necessity of giving all the government business to the bond-aided roads, and so advertised for bids for transporting the troops. As a result, the Santa Fe submitted bids, in some cases, 50 per cent. lower than the Huntington lines had charged.

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE NAMED INT THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.1. SACRAMENT, Jan. 25.—The much discussed question of adopting a joint rule on free conference occupied the attention of the Assembly at the opening of the session. The opinion was expressed that no more committees should be appointed to consult with the Benate regarding the matter. The Speaker was finally authorised to appoint another conference committee, however.

In the midst of the debate Johnson was asked what the effect of no agreement with the Senate regarding the matter. The speaker was finally authorised to appoint another conference committee, however.

In the midst of the debate Johnson was asked what the effect of no agreement with the Senate would be. He replied that in such event the regularly regonized parliamentary laws would govern, which would permit unimited free conferences. As this is what the Assembly desires, it was pointed out that nothing would be lost by a failure to agree with the Senate.

Ten minor bills were passed, adopted a resolution of sympathy with Assemblyman Surro in the death of his mother, and adjourned untill 5:39 o'clock a.m. tomorrow.

The disposition of the house was to stand upon its own dignity and to the number of free conférences which may be held on any measure. The disposition of the house was to stand upon its own dignity and to yield nothing to the Senate, simply because that body demanded it, and there was some caustic criticism of the action of the higher branch in refusing to agree to one of several propositions made by its former committee.

Among the bills which passed the Assembly, was that of Assemblyman Melick changing the law with reference to the issuance of bonds by municipal corporations. Under the present law all city bonds must be issued for a term of forty years and the new proposed law permits of any term up to forty years and the new proposed waluation of property the basis of the maximum amount of bonds which may be issued most and off fixing it at a stated amount; the result intended being that a city may increase its in debtedness as its property valuation increases.

BUNDANCE OF WORK FOR CONGRESS TO DO.

SENATORS TRY TO GET UP A TIME-SAVING PROGRAMME.

Nobody Will Agree to What Somebody Wants-Bearing of the Conditions on the President's Proposed Trip

IBT DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES. WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 .- [Exclusive Dispatch.] The question whether there thail be an extra session of Congress not is much clearer now than it was a week ago. It is a possibility, and that's all. The President talked about it with the members of his Cabinet for a good while today, and the chances are that he himself does not yet know whether there will be an extra session of not. He still hopes to be able to avoid it, but it remains largely with the Senate to say whether there shall be one or not.

the Senate to say whether there shall be one or not.

If the Senate persists in dailying along with public business at the rate that it has been going thus far this seesion, there must be an extra one to attend to public business. Republicans, as well as Democrata, have thus far joined in spending the time. The Senators today tried to get up a legislative programme that would obviate the necessity for an extra session. They have failed so far. Nobody will agree to anything that anybody else wants. Meanwhile it looks as if Congress would be obliged to deal with the Cu-

MUST BE AN "EXTRA." (BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 .- [Exclusive Dispatch.] There will be an extra seasion of Congress. The President wants Congress to authorise a civil government in the Philippines. He feels, also, that it will be indefensible to keep the Cubans waiting from March to December for action by this government upon their constitution, and the relatiors between this country and the island. H's convictions were brought out strong's tween this country and the island. H's convictions were brought out strongly in the Cabinet meeting today. If there could be legislation in these two directions before March 4, the President would not entertain the thought of an extra session. Whatever else might fail, outside the appropriation bills, he would think it might wait until December. But as to the Philippines and Cuba, the President feels the demand for action by Congress warrants an extra session.

The early adoption of a constitution by paramount necessity that the United States shall determine at an early date the Cuben convention has made it a paramount necessity that the United States shall determine at an early date the relations which are hereafter to exist between the is and and this government, and the Cabinet began to consider the question today.

While the deliberations were necessarily tentative in their general character, one conclusion was reached. It was that, whatever form of government might be cetablished in the island, the United States must always exercise a restraining, guiding influence over Cuba and its people. The exact character of these relations, from an international or legal standpoint, it would be difficult now to define, but the power execised by this government would be somewhat in the nature of a protectorate.

The Cabinet was of the opinion that its first duty feward Cuba, which consisted of the pacification and restoration of order on the island, having been performed, the problem now confronting Congress and the President is to establish the stable government referred to in the Cuban resolutions adopted nearly three years ago. The Cuban Constitutional Convention will lay of course to man out that form of try, of course, to map out that form of government, but before it becomes operative it must be submitted to and approved by the United States. President McKinley and his advisers are resolved that Cuba must not be footloose in the matter of her interna-tional relations; that she must not be vested with power to engage in a war which would prove detrimental to the interests of this government, and that the United States must take reasonable precautions against any such en-continued. The Indian Bill finally was passed.

The Ship Subsidy Bill came up, and Mr. Frye announced that he would refuse to yield further to any other bills, even appropriation bills, unless the Senate, by a vote, pinded the appropriation bills ahead. With the Ship Subsidy Bill out of the way, Mr. Frye thought there would be no trouble in disposing of the appropriation bills.

Mr. Turner of Washington spoke against the bill. He said it was one of the most extraordinary measures ever brought before Congress. It was vicious in principle and absurd in the extravagance to which it proceeded. He maintained that the bill was purposely carried to an extreme. It was one-quarter government paternalism and three-quarters a lawless piratical raid on the public treasury.

Mr. Perkins took exception to the provisions of the bill limiting the amount of subsidy to go to ships built on the Pacific Coast to 30 per cent. of the whole amount. Mr. Frye repiled that no more had been asked before the committee.

"I had sufficient confidence in the gentleman at nat time," retorted Mr. Flynn. "What led to the investigation which unearthed the facts?" he continued, "was that the moment the bill passed the gentleman from Texas telegraphed his friends to go into the lands and locate claims."

"Did you not telegraph your friends?" interposed Mr. Stephens. "Yes, that bill had passed, but I insist that the investigation developed the fact that the gentleman from Texas was the only member of either house who knew the mining clause was in the bill."

"That statement," cried Mr. Stephens, raising his arm threateningly, "is knowingly and maliciously made."

"That is strong language," retorted Mr. Flynn, who preserved his equanalimity, "I received my information upon a visit to the reservation."

The members of the House at this point expected a sensational explosion, but the incident flattened out. Mr. Stephens called upon Mr. Curtis of Kansas of the Committee on Indian affairs and Mr. Little of Arkansas, who he said, knew the section was in the bill, to bear testimony to that effect. Neither of the gentleman appealed to arose. After a pause the speaker observed dryly, "the gentlemen do not seem to be rising."

"Did you know that it proposed to take the land of Indians without compensation?" asked Mr. Flynn.

Intimation That She Is Living On Savings of Former Years.

IBY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES! LONDON, Jan. 29.- [Exclusive Dispatch.] The Times, in an editorial dealing with the constant excess of the value of British imports over exports, especially in reference to the United States, says it considers the matter one of utmost moment, because it is a question whether the British are still saving and living within their income, or are beginning to live on the accumulated savings of former times. It adds that the difficulty is how to determine, even with approximate accuracy, the amount of so-called invisible exports, the date of these items being hypothetical, not to say conjectural. It quotes from a letter of a financial correspondent, J. W. Cross, from which it appears, if the data are accurate, that Great Britain has just been paying her way for the last three years. The Times, however, thinks it is important to remember that the estimate is conjectural, because it may err in either direction by many millions of pounds, and if it errs in an unfavorable direction the outlook will be distinctly disquieting for the commercial future of Great Britain, It deems it most important to obtain accurate and definite statistics, and instances as a vital feature of the question the large amount of American securities returned to the United States.

He says that 150 English negroes who were employed to do police duty, fied when the insurgents began firing into the jungles, only twenty-five Americans being left to protect the property and lives of American families. The measurer from the lake implored the United States legation at Caracas to afford protection, saying that the lives and property of Americans we:e exposed to guerrilla attacgs, firing around the lake going on nightly, and the Americans are too few to hold out long.

United States Minister Loomis, according t the same advices, tepled that these reports were possibly exaggerated, but that they could not be ignored, and that he would wire the facts to Washington.

The revolution in Eastern Venezuela near the asphalt deposits is increasing, but the disturbances are remote from Caracas, which remains tranquil, Cables to the Trinidad papers from Caracas are severely censored. The Venezuelson government the their control of the United States. Even diplomatic messages are tampered with.

A FEW years ago the United States Supreme Court was required to a supreme Court was required to a supreme Court was required to the court of the conductor of the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, was injured through the negligence of the conductor of his train. It coilided with another, and he had neglected to give the engineer an order for the running of his train, as the rules of the company require. The engineer sued the company, and sought to shield itself behind the rule that the engineer and conductor were fellow-servants. What answer did the court make?

The opinion was given by Justice Field. He began by inquiring. "What is essential to render the service in which different persons are engaged a common employment?" He remarked that the question had caused great conflict of opinion, and then described how far the English courts had gone

In Louisiana the Supreme Court, after regarding the decision with favor, depressingly remarked that "in matters of this kind where one enters upon the study of the infinite number of decisions which had been rendered by a multitude of courts, he encounters a mass of contradictory decisions and an infinite variety of qualifications which supply the mind and render it impossible to reach a conclusion consistent with them all." "No doubt," added the court, "this principle might receive extension to other relations between officers having the right to command and subordinates subject to such command."

SOUTH CAROLINA AND COLORADO In South Carolina the Supreme Court

SOUTH CAROLINA AND COLORADO

In South Carolina the Supreme Court strongly opposed the rule in Ross's case the court remarking: "It seems to us clear that unless the conductor of a railroad train is, while in charge of the train, the representative of the company, then the train is being run without any representative. He has entire charge of the train and every employed on it is subject to his orders."

The Ross decision was also opposed by the Supreme Court of Colorado. The case calling for an application of the rule related to a superintendent or foreman engaged in extending a railroad, who had negligently injured one of the men employed under him. The foreman had changed the tools and cars used in doing the work and employed and discharged the men. The court remarked that in no proper sense of the term was he a fellow-servant with the injured employe. "The company had placed him in charge of the work, with full direction to control and supervise it, and he must be treated in reference to this work as its representative—as vice-principal. The company is answerable to all the under servants for the negligence of such a representative while acting within the scope of his employment."

LAW LESSONS: EMPLOYERS top the conductor signaled the engineer to tack up; he obeyed, the cars came together and the brakeman was crushed. The company was held liable, because the conductor was regarded as its agent, and not the fellow-servant of the brakeman. "The negligence of the conductor was the negligence of the conductor was the negligence of the company."

ANOTHER FEDERAL CASE.

The rule in the Ross case was afterward applied by one of the judges who took part in its decision, Justice Miller, while sitting as a Circuit Court judge. A common hand engaged in distributing iron rails along the side of a railroad track, was injured through the negligence of the engineer, who was managing the switching engine used in transferring cars from one place to another. After deciding that the common hand and the engineer were not fellow-servants he added that this was "the necessary result of the latest decision of the Supreme Court of the United States on the same subject," meaning the Ross case.

on a common employment?" He remarked that the question had caused great conflict of opinion, and then deacribed how far the English courts had gone in sweeping men employed by the same person into the same class as fellows servants. One of these cases, which perhaps had gone further than any other in this country, was Holden vs. Fitchburg Railroad, decided by the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, in which the court held that an employed could not emintain an action against his employer for an injury content in the two deriving in company, nor had ony opportunity to control or influence the two deriving their authority and their compensation from the same source, are enasged in the same business, though in different departments of duty. mon employer and relieving a campany or employer from all liability to respond for their negliwence, on the ground that the employes, whether few or many, assumed the risk. Possibly the Supreme Court might hold, in the case of a railroad company, that the president, vice-president and superintendent and a few other officers are its agents and not fellow-servants of the thousands working under their immediate or remote direction; but who are its agents and who are not? The last case, that of Conroy, leaves all in the dark. It smites down every rule that the courts have tried to draw between agents and non-agents employed by a company; it shows that they are all based on a sandy funfation and ought not to stand. What, then, is left of this doctrine of fellow-service? We cannot see anything in the way of a Federal rule. It is true that a few of the leading officers may still be regarded as agents, for whose acts their company may be liable, but the court does not take the trouble to define them. Perhaps it was not worth while, for they are so few and so remote from the work of most of the employes that no occasion is likely to arise in which they would incur any negligence whereby others would suffer.

It is quite in harmony with the whittling away and overthrowing of any negligence whereby others would suffer.

It is quite in harmony with the whittling away and overthrowing of this distinction, and the sweeping of almost every employe within the same common class, as fellow-servants, to diminish the liability of employers for the competency of their employers for the competency of the proposed for the competency of the proposed for the pure was and the fluess of the appliance that an employer is not responsible for the eping them in repair. One would suppose that if it was responsible for the fitness or suitability of an appliance in the beginning it logically ought to be held responsible for keeping it in repair. Not so, says the Supreme Court of Massachusetts; we will apply a different rule. The men who repair are fellow-agents with those who use the appliances, and therefore their common master is not responsible for the consequence. It is true that the courts in most of the States repudiate this doctrine and hold with strong reason and sound logic that if an employer mush turnish safe and suitable appliances in the beginning he must also keep them in repair. It is true he can furnish those which are not safe and suitable if those who use them know their true character and the defects are so obvious that they ought to have known them: but it should not know their true character and the defects are so obvious that they ought to have known them; but it should not be forgotten that whenever the master does this he is regarded as negligent with respect to other servants who may be injured by them, unless they also have knowledge concerning them.

THOMAS KEARNS'S COURSE FROM COAL MINE TO CAPITOL.

> Youth Spent in Poverty, but Now a Silver King-A Friend of Southern California and an Earnest Worker

The following facts concerning the life of the newly-elected United States Senator from Utah are furnished by a citizen of Los Angeles who is personally acquainted with Mr. Kearns:

From a Pennsylvania coal mine to the United States Senate; such is the history of Thomas Kearns, the "Silver King" of Utah, whose life reads like a romance.

King" of Utah, whose life rends like a romance.

Born in Pennsylvania of Irish parentage, in the year 1855, his boyhood and youth were spent in hard work and poverty Such a life did not suit the elder Kearns, however, so in 1876 the whole family, consisting of Mr. Kearns and wife and six childrenfour boys and two girls—came west to Nebraska. They settled in Holt county, locating on government land, and became members of the John O'Nell colony. The oldest boy was the first Sheriff of Holt county, but was shot dead by a cowboy resisting arrest.

Although Tom's father was a hardy and courageous ploneer, it was his mother's influence which was chiefly instrumental in molding his character. Many good stories are told of her kindness to wayfarers stopping at their woman of the best type, and her influence with her husband is boundless. She has an intimate knowledge of his affairs, political and financial, and will doubtless prove a valuable adviser to the new Senator.

During the great bliszard of February 7, 1879, which raged over the entire State, the old Kearns home was crowded with refugees from the by storm, many of whom had been rescued from death by a party organized by Mrs. Kearns herself.

Mr. Kearns is a strong personality of the aggressive type, yet withal he is a kindly man, generous to a fault. Since he has "struck it rich" his former friends have not been forgotten, for many of his boyhood companions may be found today in his employ, and as a rule they are "holding down" the beet jobs at his disposal.

The Senator-elect is not what might be called an orator, yet he has an abundance of Celtic fre and humor, and a vast amount of common sense, which enables him to make an excellent showing on the public platform, additionally the proper and who will prove a most valuable representative in the Senate, Southern California may well rejoice that she has in him a friend who has a lively interest in her needs. A WARNING TO YOUNG MEN.

A WARNING TO YOUNG MEN.

"The sentence of this court is that each of you be imprisoned in the State Prison at Trenton at hard labor for a term of thirty years."

Such were the solemn words of Judge Dixor in pronouncing sentence upon McAlister, Campbell and Death, the three young men found guilty of murder in the second degree in administering chloral to Jennie Bosschieter at Paterson, N. J., and subsequently making a criminal assault upon her. Kerr, another man who was with the party, but who claimed he took no part in the assault, received a sentence of fifteen years in the same institution.

This awful affair and its tragic ending should serve as a warning to the young man who is inclined to be a "royal good fellow," and a frequenter of saloms and places which are of a "shady" character. The youth who will allow himself to be led into these vile resorts will sooner or later reach the end of his rope, and his climax will be swift and sudden. At least two of these young men who must grind out the long, weary years of their sentence under the watchful eye of prison officials, at hard labor, were of prison officials, at hard labor, were of their uin.

this. You have a mission to perform, and it behooves you to bend every energy to its fulfillment. You cannot do it by frequenting questionable resorts. These young men upon whom this terrible sentence has just been passed will enter State's orison in the prime of their young manhood. They will leave their dismal abode old and gray-haired men, with wrecked lives and no possible chance of regaining the respect of the world—no hope whatever for them.

Covina Club.

At the regular monthly social meeting of the Covina Monday Afternoon Club, held at the home of Mrs. C. W. Potter, West College street, on the 28th Inst., Miss Vosburg of Los Angeles gave a very interesting address on the workings of the Los Angeles Ebell, followed by a plano solo charmingly rendered by Mrs. Hilda Brunjes. An instructive paper on the "Hindoo Drama," prepared by Miss Cousins, was read by Mrs. C. Clark. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. C. W. Potter, Mrs. J. D. Reed and Mrs. J. J. Morgan.

Unknown South America.

[St. Louis Star:] It is almost three court of the spaniards crossed South America from sea to sea: nearly every city on the coast was founded in the age of Columbia explorers; and yet today this next-door neighbor of ours is least known of all continents. There are not so many big white spaces showing unexplored country, on the map of Arrica as on that of South America. Another surprising fact is that, up to 1875, not a single government on that continent had sent out any expeditions or spent any money to explore the unknown parts of their territories. A few explorers from Europe have made most of this country's additions to our geographical knowledge of South America. Argentine and Chile are the exceptions to this statement, for these governments have made a systematic study of the mountain ranges along their common frontier.

TRUE CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM.

The bishop then reviewed the Encyclical of Leo XIII, issued in 1831, on the condition of labor, wherein he said the Pope laid down the principles of a true Christian socialism. The Pope recognized the unrest in the world, he said, and considered that it came mainly from a too great concentration of wealth in the hands of a few, to the increasing exigencies of the working men, and to a closer union of working men themselves, but above all to a forgetfulness of the responsibilities to Ged on the part of society lisself. He declared for the inalicable right of association among laboring men for all lawful ends to better their condition, but, of course, the end must be lawful and just, he said, and likewise the means used. To deny this right was to deny human liberty. But to push this right to the detriment of public good, was to render it wrong.

"The two factors in this right are man's industry and intelligence, and the laws of peoples regulating it," said the bishop. "It is not absolute: the state has the right to eminent domain, to tax it for public purposes, and to see that private ownership does not conflict with the public good. The possession of great wealth in itself is not wrong. He who acquires great wealth by edish and heartless means, and uses or hordes it for selfish and heartless ends, is a public evil. The Pope says that it is one thing to have the right to the possession of morey; another to have the right to the possession of morey; another to have the right to the possession of morey; another to have the right to the possession of morey; another to have the right to the possession of morey; another to have the right to the possession of morey; another to have the right to the possession of morey; another to have the right to the possession of morey; another to have the right to the possession of morey; and the tother conditions than are right and of orce and injustice. STOCKTON'S INQUIRY.

Likes the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and Wants to Know How the Institution is Conducted.

Secretary Frank Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a letter from the Superintendent of Schools of Stockton. In which the writer asks for information relative to the local chamber. If Mr. Wiggins would do all that is requested of him in the communication, he would doubtless have to resign his present position and spend the next year or more in delivering an address to the Stockton man. In addition to asking for all the printed matter which the chamber furnishes to easiern people, the number of members of the chamber, the dues paid by "cb. the number of officers and the estimates of their salaries, manner of ore—" and rules and by laws, the writer requests Mr. Wiggins to tell all he knows about running a Chamber of Commerce.

Now. Mr. Wierine is a very modest man, and "" he does not volunteer the information, it is suspected that he knows considerable about running a Chamber of Commerce. But he is accommodating, and although he will not attempt to divulge the full limit of his learning, he will give the Stockton far of the local concern.

The communication from Stockton is not the first one of a similar character which has been received by Mr. Wiggins to seal of which shows that Los Angeles.

LAWSUIT OVER DEEDS. John Haraty, an old railroad en-ineer, is in Judge York's department

In May. 1885, he was compelled to borrow 3550, which loan he miade from S. C. Hubbell, who took as security an absolute deed to the Third-street realty. This property, says Haraty, is nicely improved eight a house of modern conveniences, ewer connections, etc., at the expense of cummunity earnings. But when the $350 debt was paid, he alleges, Hubbell conveyed the property to Mrs. Haraty. But at the time he gave the absolute deed to Hubbell, he says his wife had him also sign an instrument which he thoughf was a part of the Hubbell trensaction up till last April, when he says he found it was a deed to her of all his real and personal property except $350, the amount of the loan.

In August, 1883, his wife is also alleged to have induced him to sign another instrument in the belief that it was a mortgage to enable her to borrow money, but last April he discovered he had signed à quit-claim deed instead, including other property.

Recently, he alleges, his wife openly asserted her sole ownership of the disputed property and ordered him to be a very inconsiderate and cruel husband. She avers, in the first place, that he has at all times known the nature of the documents he signed, and did so voluntarily. At any rate, she says she feels that she is entitled to, the property from all she has suffered in the past. She avers that she has been scantily provided for and plenteously ebused by tongue and hand of her husband during a series of years. She says he dissipates, and used to get crunk while she was off working for the neighbors as a common servant. Twice did she dismiss divorce actions on his promises to reform, she avers, but she thinks it was in vain.

She, therefore, saks the courts to let the conveyances stand.

[THE OIL INDUSTRY.] TOP STRATUM TO BE TAPPED.

Southwestern Extension to Try New Tactics.

Good Strike Reported in Wiley Canyon.

Texas Scare About Over-Erie's New Directors-Dull Day on 'Change.

Why have the operators in the south-western extension of the local field neglected the development of the first stratum of oil sand?

This is a question that would-be oil producers in that field have been asking themselves since it has been demonstrated in the northern arm, that shallow wells are paying propositions, and there seems to be no good reason for this neglect. In the southern arm a rich stratum of oil sand runs through the field that many now believe could be made to yield with as successful results as that on the property of the B. & B., Loma Vista, racific Slope, Stering and other operators in the northern extension.

This opinion ands support in the fact that early this week the itesedale Cemetery Association, unsowered a rich stratum of sand on its property southeast of Hauser Station, at a shallow

This opinion ands support in the fact that early this week the Resedaie Cemetery Association, uncovered a rich stratum of sand on its property southeast of Hauser Station, at a shallow depth. The drill dropped into oil sand at sixty-five feet and the sand continued until 2 depth of 191 feet was reached. The well was baled out and from the first sand oil was taken at the rate of twenty burrels a day. This showing would indicate that the well would probably yield a steady flow of ten barrels a day. Such wells are being pumped at a profit in the northern extension, and the question is anked why not in the southern field.

The logs of the various companies show that the first stratum was found at a shallow depth, but in almost every incident the oil sand was cased, as operators were of the opinion that a lower depth. In this they were more or less correct, as has been proven by later development work, but the deep wells that have been drilled there have been put down with great expense.

On the property of the Congress Oil aixty feet.

Adjoining the Congress on the east a well was drilled on the Croswell tract and in it sand was struck at if feet and ended at 117 feet. South of the electric line on the same tract the sand was reached at from 45 feet to 160 feet.

East of Hauser Station Pitcher and Garbutt drilled a hydraulic hole, and in it the sands were found as follows: First, 23 to 86 feet; second, 300 to 400 feet; third, 750 to 865 feet.

A quarrer of a mile east the Lion Oil Company found sand at thirty-one feet Company found sand at thirty-one feet and it showed up well for twenty-two feet. In almost every hole the first sand was cased off, but in every one the stratum showed up rich and would have paid had it been developed. The principal companies are now considering the advisability of sinking shallow holes, and it is almost certain that several will adopt that plan of development, which seems the better one in view of its success to the northwest.

STANDARD'S LUCK.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Erie Oil Company yeaterday the following directors and officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, John R. Mathews; vice-president, H. Jewn; secretary, M. H. Flint; treasurer, Warren Gillelen. Including the above the directors are: L. H. Valentine. W. M. Johnston and L. J. Mathews. A report from the field manager shows the company to bo-making good progress on its Fillmore property. The first well has been sent in 555 feet, and several strong flows of gas have been found.

ON 'CHANGE. LOOKED LIKE TAME AFFAIR.

To the man on the outside of the rail, the call on the floor of the local stock exchange yesterday was a very tame affair. At both ressions small blocks of oil securities were sold, the total amounting to 5540 shares for which $4572 was paid.

Several hundred shares of Reed-Crude went under the hammer at 65 and 67 cents, and twenty shares of Union brought $120.

A marked advance was recorded by Globe; that popular security being 30% at the close.

For the first time the Senator was sold on the local floor; 500 shares brought $2.25 a share.

All down the line prices were firmer than they have been for several days, and there is prospect of better prices.

Thirty-five days have elapsed since spudding began. The well is 105 feet deep and is thought to be good for 300 barrels. Several blowouts have occurred in the past few days, and the oil has shot up thirty and forty feet high."

The Texas scare is now practically over and oil operators and well-owners in various parts of the count'y are fesiting much casier to learn that the Texas product of the Beaumont we'l is not, oil that can refine into an illuminant at a profit. Of the effect of the oil on the price of petroleum in eastern markets, a correspondent in Toledo, O., writes: "The Texas product is bound to have a certain effect upon our market, as it can be utilized for fuel purposes and for lubricating grades. At the time the Texas gusher was drilled in it looked very much as though the operators of this field had bitter stop the drill, and many of them did, but they have recovered from the scare and operations are once more on the 50. The product of the new gusher is a 22 to 23 gravity, and many say that it is too heavy to handle by pipe lines. Still, J. M. Guffey of Pittsburgh and his associates, are building a affecen-mile line of six-inch capacity from the well to Port Arthur, and are building a half-million barrels of storage. It does not signify that another well of the kind will be found in the entire State of Texas, and the probabilities are that the heavy flow of oil backed up with an ocean of sait water. similar to the famous Wellsompleted in Ohio, like the famous Wellsompleted in Ohio, like the famous Wellsompleted in Ohio, like the famous Memurray well, midway between Findiay and North Baltimore. The two systems of reward are happly blended, making enough of a sure thing to constitute an inducement and enough by way of premium to stimulate the ambition to the top notch. The outcome, whether large or small, sepends solely upon the effort; there are chance about it—no drawing or browing dice or voting—no hugger-unger busness at all—but straight emiums for the largest lists of subribers furnished. THE FIRST PLACE. On the whole we are inclined to agree with the judgment of President Seth Low, says the St. Paul Dispatch, who, last year, save to the development of the bank deposit and exchange first place as the most important and far-reaching development of the century. Aside from the field of invention, the domain of mind, but still intimately connected with the promotion of what fertile mind discovered, the bank has been behind and supporting every other movement that has made for progress during the century. It has been to industry what the boiler is to the machinery of the shop; it has furnished the motive power that made possible the activity. What steam is to the ensire, money is to human enterprise and energy.

The Cincinnati Pfice Current says:

"A liberal marketing of hogs is shown for the past week. Total western packing, 605,000, compared with $10,000 the preceding week, and 295,000 two weeks ago. For corresponding time last year the number was $10,000, and two years ago $50,000. From November 1, the total is 5,865,000, against 5,895,000 a year ago—an increase of $19,000. The satisfactory quality of stock being marketed is being maintained. Prices were advanced early in the week, receding somewhat later, closing silghtly higher than a week ago for the general average, and 65 cents per 100 pounds higher than a year ago.

"The provision trade has not changed in general characteristics, although attended with variations in values of leading articles from day to day, closing with little change from the position a week ago. There appears no be considerable firmness in gresh, pickled and dry-salted meats, while other products are freely offered. The trade as a rule regards the future with considerable confidence, under the conviction that the fine weather for feeding and marketing stock which has prevalled this season has had the effect to get a full proportion of supplies forward. So far as existing conditions can be interpreted, there is not much to suggest important changes in the near future. The demand for lard is measurably a waiting one, under the prevailing position of prices, while the situation of supplies is such as to discourage operations in anticipation of early weakness in the market. The week's export clearances of product were quite liberal of both lard and meats, and in excess of corresponding time last year in each instance."

Follow them and study them five years later; note the gradual straightening of the body, the kindling of the eye, and the alertness of the whole person as the men, women and children begin to realize their opportunities, bring in their wages, and move to better quarters. With this comes also the power of self-mastery. The savage eats what he kills and spends what he has. In the movement toward civilization, through material wealth, questions come up for decision every hour. Shall I spend? Shall I save? How shall I spend? How can I save? How shall I spend? How can I save more?

GOOD RULES. J. M. Willson says to store clerks in the Grocery World:

(1.) Be honest in all things.

Be honest with your employer's goods and money; be honest in the service you give him; be honest in representing goods to customers; be honest with yourself.

(2.) Receive goods with care.

In checking up an involve of goods received, count, weigh or measure all goods placed in stock; when possible ascertain if quality of goods is up to standard. Beport deficiencies of all kinds to the management at once.

(3.) Wrap all packages neatly.

Always strive to send out as neat a package as possible. It creates a good impression of your store.

(4.) Conduct and behavior.

Toward your fellow-clerks be modest, obliging, helpful and courteous. Toward the management polite, serviceable and loyal.

(5.) Personal dony's.

Don't read newspapers, books or letters while on duty, Don't eat fruit, lunch, etc., in the salesroom. Don't chew gum or use tobacco during business hours. Don't clean nails or arrange hair while on the sales floor; no gentleman will expectorate in public.

(6.) Be reticent as to business.

Never speak of the firm's business or the store's concerns outside the building—it is not business.

(7.) Have confidence in your store.

Don't believe any one in your town has a better store, or sells better goods than your firm. Be enthusiastic and impress customers with your belief. A store that affords you a position is a pretty good institution, even if it is small.

Presh fish were in plenty for large kinds, particularly halibut. Small kinds were scarce.

onions are scarce, and firm for the best grades.

Oranges are moving pretty well. In most orchards the pickers will not get in before from Thursday to Saturday, even if the weather settles. By that time stocks in the warehouses will be pretty well cleared up. There are said to be plenty of cars on hand now. Choice apples get firmer from week to week. Any really good apple is worth $1.50, and choice $1.75. Bananas are easy there being an abundance on the market.

SHARES AND MONEY.

(INT THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—The stock market again was dominated by St.

Paul today, with some incidental disturbance from the erratic fluctuations of Steel and Wire. These two stocks really made the market, and prices moved somewhat narrowly and on a small volume of transactions in sympathy with them throughout the day.
Southern Pacific was a notable exception to the general tendency of the market. It was bought largely all day, and in the late dealings rose an extreme 1% to 48, carrying some other stocks, notably among the Grangers and Pacifics, with it. But renewed weakness in the two leaders carried the prices, except for Southern Pacific down again, leaving only a few insignificant net gains among the large list of losses. There was no news to account for the movement in Southern Pacifil beyond the argument of the speculators in the stock that an advance in its price was long overdue.

Mobile and Ohlo made a very notable rise of 6%, accompanied by rumors of absorption or control by the Illinois Central. New York Central gained two points on very light transactions, and Manhattan and Leather showed signs of strength. American Express gained 4% without any explanatory SHARES AND MONEY.

news. The opening break in St. Paul was violent, the stock dropping 4%. under pressure of heavy blocks to sell to 150. Later it got up to 152 twice, and wavered between that and 151. closing with, a net loss of 2%. The emphatic disclaimer by all St. Paul authorities that arrangements had been completed for the transfer of control to the Great Northern and Northern Pacific made it clear that whatever plans were in operation to bring about that result, there were decided objections among St. Paul stockholders to it. That a very large portion of the heavy dealings in the stock are surely speculative is manifest from the fact that yesterday's transactions alone aggregated more than half the number of the total entire capital of the company. In Steel and Wire the low point was made at 39, soon after the opening, and the stock then rebounded to above 41 before the announcement was made that the promised statement would be withheld until 3 o'clock p.m., instead of being published at 11 o'clock. During the afternoon the stock got as high as 41%, but closed at a net loss of %. The prevailing state of mind of speculators in the stock was evidently one of entire uncertainty as to the effect of statement would have on holders, and the uncertainty is likely to continue, as no action has been taken on the actual question of the dividend. The congested and uneven character of the trading is indicated by the fact that not a single share of such a usually-active stock as Sugar was sold until well into the second hour. Bonds continued moderately active and irregular. Total sales were 43,855,000. United States threes and fours advanced % on the last call.

MÉMORIAL SERVICES.

COVINA, Jan. 29.—[Regular Correspondence,] On Sunday morning memorial services for Queen Victoria were held at the Episcopal and Baptist churches. At Holy Trinity the altar and chancel rails were draped in black, and suspended above the altar was a picture (colored) of the deceased monarch, taken in the sixtleth year of her reign, set in an oak frame and draped with crepe. Special prayers were read for the bereaved royal family, and the rector, Rev. J. S. Matthews, taking as his text "Many daughters have done virtuously, but, thou excellest them all," eulogised the late Queen, and reviewed briefly and comprehensively the power and influence she wielded for that which was good in the world. At the Baptist Church the Rev. C. M. Jones referred in tender culogy to the inte Queen, and dwelt with eloquence on the magnificent reign, both from a spiritual and temporal standpoint.

Fair weather followed until Sunday morning when a general rain set in and gave a generous precipitation throughout Southern California, according to the Weekly Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau. Fine growing weather prevailed during the week and the reports state that the last rain assures a good hay crop, that fed and grain are growing finely and that the prospects for a good year both for the farmer and orchardist are excellent. Orange shipments were brisk, but it is probable that the rain will interfere with picking for a while.

REAL ESTATE ACTIVITY.

The real estate market, which for many months has been in a dormant state, is showing bealthy signs of life, and the numerous transactions completed and pending indicate that investors have confidence in the future of Pasadena. Real estate dealers say the peat few months are bright with promise of many deals of importance, both in residence and business property, and the market is said to be in a sound condition. The building of the new Dodworth and Ward blocks on Colorado street seems to have renewed interest and inspired confidence in downlown property, and those improvements undoubtedly will be followed by others, made necessary partly by the placing on the market of destrable of fice and storerooms in modern buildings and partly by reason of an increased demand caused by expanding business.

A deal just completed involves the transfer of the two-story brick building at No. 20 East Colorado street, to E. B. Pierce of this city, who has purchased the property has a frontage of twenty, five feet, and the price paid was about a fis. 500. The former one paid was about the new hotel at the corner of Spring and Fourth streets in that city. Another deal of some importance is the acquirement by Mrs. Mary K. Bartlett of the remaining quarter interest in vacant lots on the north side of Colorado street, just west of the Santa Fé tracks, the west boundary being 180 feet deep, running through to Union attreet. Mrs. Bartlett formerly owned at 14,000. It is said that a substantial improvement will be made on the lots within a few months.

A deal which failed recently, but of which there is some hope of a revival, is the transfer of the Kitchener property, he whole of which is valued at 14,000. It is said that a substantial improvement will be made on the lots within a few months.

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 29.—[Regular Correspondence.] The grand Jury has found a bill of indictment against John R. Gray for seduction. The Sheriff left this afternoon for Los Angeles, where Gray is said to be, with a bench warrant for his arrest. This is a sensational sequel to the damage suit recently tried in the Superior Court of Riverside county, in which judgment was rendered for plaintiff, Miss Nellie Swett of Beaumont, against Gray, a wealthy young merchant of the same town, for over $12,000. It was generally supposed that the affair would end in the judgment rendered as a result of the civil action, and the fact that Gray is to be prosecuted on a criminal charge will come as a big surprise to all those interested.

ARCHITECT'S FOOD.

Grape-Nuts Turned into Big Buildings

Grape-Nuts Turned into Big Buildings
The duties of an architect are so multitudinous, looking after the thousand and one details required in the construction of large buildings, that many of them suffer from the constant mental application and require the best of food to keep up their work. The chief draughtsman in the office of R. T. Newberry, architect, at 1227 New York Life Building, Chicago, by name, Henry C. Hengels, says;

"After nine months' constant application in the preparation of the necessary plans and details for the large hotel known as the Post Tavern and the Post Building, at Battle Creek, as well as several other large institutions, I found myself in a very debilitated and dyspeptic condition and unfit for work.

"Instead of medical treatment, 1 used Grape-Nuts food in place of the usual breakfast cereals. The first few days gave great encouragement, and after a week's use, quite an appreciable improvement manifested itself. Since then, daily use has entirely restored the digestive functions to their natural healthy condition, and I have gained about one pound per week. I am now entirely well and strong again and am able to apply myself to work with more than usual vigor. I consider Grape-Nuts a most valuable food for all brain workers. The help this food has given me is incalculable."

OREAT GOLD PROSPECT.

ONTARIO, Jan. 28.—[Regular Correspondence.] That Ontario has a great gold mine at her back door asems likely to be proven within the next few months. For several years past one of the colony's foremost promoters. Charles Frankish, has been doing the assessment work on a mineral zone lying on the mess at the head of Euclid avenue, comprising 230 acres. The ore is not of high grade, but it is there in large quantities, and from careful tests made the gold values run from $5 to $5 per ton.

The property was bonded last week to Daniel E. Hayes of San Francisco. the president of the Kennedy mine in Amador county. Mr. Frankish parts with a three-fourths interest only, for which he receives $50,000. The contract calls for $17,000 to be spent in development work and improvements upon the property within the year, together with payment upon account of the purchase price.

Experts say that this property is situated in a great mineralized zone, and that a thousand tons a day could be mined from it for the next fifty years, the pay showing up through a much larger belt than in the famous Utics mine. C. D. Lane and Alvinsa Hayward are also understood to be with Mr. Hayes in the deal. Active work GREAT GOLD PROSPECT.

MISS KINGSBURY'S DEATH.

Cause Not Yet Determined, but Epilepsy Appears to Be the Generallyaccepted Theory.

The mystery surrounding the death of Miss Celia Kingsbury, the servant in the family of Dr. W. W. Hitchcock, which occurred suddenly last Thursday, is still unsolved, but it is now the generally-accepted opinion of those who have followed the case and understand the circumstances of the signs in the case. Beef for Los Angeles.

W. H. Jack, a cattleman of Silver City, N. M., arrived here yesterday with several carloads of beef for Los Angeles. He is at the Natick. Mr.
Jack said yesterday that New Mexico is on the threshold of the best season in ten years. Itain has been abundant and the auticok is very promising.

Miss Kingsbury had been employed at her residence for about five years, and was like one of the family. She went to Mrs. Hitchcock with her troubles as she would have gone to her own mother. Mrs. Hitchcock says she does not remember Miss Kingsbury having been sick in five years with the exception of a slight cold occasionally. She never knew Miss Kingsbury to ever been sick in five years with the exception of a slight cold occasionally. She never knew Miss Kingsbury to even take arsenic wafers for her complexion, or any drugs for any complaint, and thinks that in view of the gir's actions after she was taken sick, her death was due to epliepsy.

On the afternoon of her death Miss Kingsbury left the Hitchcock residence, No. 1700 South Grand avenue in the best of spirits and apparently enjoying perfect health. She boarded an incoming Grand-avenue car and rode to Eleventh street, where she alighted and walked over to Flower street to the house of her dressmaker, Mrs. May, where she remained an hour or more. She then evidently went to the People's Store, where she bought dress goods and a pair of shoes. The dress goods and the next known of her she men as the shoes, and, carrying the-old ones in a paper, left the store about 2:30 o'clock and the next known of her she mered the Broadway Department store, where she was stricken down.

The statement attributed to Mrs. Edna Wilkins of No. 451 South Grand avenue, that she heard Miss Kingsbury say she had a similar attack about two years ago is not corroborated by the statements of others who were present. A chemical examination of the dead girl's stomach will be made for traces of poison, but it is not believed that any will be found, and that the final verdict in the case will be that her death was due to epilepsy.

B. C. Kingsbury, No. 421 Central avenue, a brother of the dead girl, writes The Times that he is still under the impression that she was poisoned, and he believes the mystery will be solved some day. Mr. Kingsbury wonders why Mrs. Wilkins did not make her statement before the inquest.
